JUNG loves... "Exhibition of Things"

The temporary installation at Fuorisalone 2021 in Milan will allow visitors to experience the heartbeat of JUNG. The artificially interpreted installation JUNG LOVES... opens up space for expansive fields of association that revolve around the term „love“. Passion and longing are reflected in spherically dense images in the installation as well as the fragility of being. The sampling of many different effects gives the space colour, sound and movements that irritate the synapses and allow everyday life to slip away for a brief moment. In an explosion of red tones, the classic LS 910 switch displays the colour depth of the „Polychromie Architecturale“ of the original Les Couleurs® Le Corbusier colours, contrasted by the combination of pure black as a statement and pure white as an understatement.

The installation is designed by the design office „rauminter“.

Progress as a tradition
JUNGS's design and technology chain is in line with the complexity of the installation which is focusing on the combination of clear forms, smart technologies and the sensuality of the material. Construction is constantly evolving in line with the spirit of the times and technological progress. JUNG considers its corporate responsibility to precisely shape it. The focus isn't just on the product, however, but on the architecture as a whole. An architectural idea can only be implemented with high-quality materials and products that meet the respective design requirements and functional core elements as part of the building, but also maintain a permanent dialogue with architecture in the many different communication formats.
